

Jared Everett

Vice President of University Partnerships

Jared joined EdR in 2016. He came to EdR from Boise State University where he served in several capacities over his nearly 14 years there, most recently as treasurer and executive director of real estate and business development, where he managed a $500 million combined portfolio of investments, debt and capital projects. Prior to Boise State, Everett worked at Arizona State University. Everett's undergraduate degree is from Arizona State University and he also earned an MBA from Boise State.

At EdR, Everett will use his nearly two decades of experience in real estate ventures to help university leaders navigate the variety of public private partnership (P3) options and determine the best strategy to achieve their student housing goals as well as support those universities in development and planning.
