Senior Vice President of Western Development

Steve Schnoor is EdR's senior VP of western development. Steve has nearly 35 years' experience in construction and development, most recently with Concord Eastridge, Inc., a national real estate development company focused on public-private and mixed-use real estate development in association with universities and colleges, public entities, not-for-profit organizations and other institutions. His most recently completed project, Roosevelt Point at Arizona State University-Downtown in Phoenix, Arizona, was successfully developed in partnership with EdR. At Concord Eastridge, Steve was responsible for providing leadership to project development teams and management of their projects in the western U.S. region. He also previously served as director of alternative finance and delivery for Turner Construction Co. from 2000 to 2008, where he was responsible for management of Turner's involvement in design/build/finance and public-private partnership development projects on a national basis. His background includes serving as senior VP technical services and systems with Westin Hotel Co. Steve earned his M.Arch. from University of Washington and his B.A. in architecture from Yale University.
